Very flexible with grades and gives a lot of extra credit.

The only thing that I do not like is HW. They are very long and need a lot of time to solve, I spend 7 hours in each HW which is hate in a winter session or summer. I can do it in spring and fall, but in the short sessions I cannot.

excellent professor

This has seriously been one of the best class experiences I have had at college so far. I have a special place in my heart for my engineering professor, but Joseph Nakao is a damn close second place. He was always prepared, respectful, and enthusiastic about teaching. He consistently made an effort to make sure every student understood class material and did so efficiently. Overall, an amazing instructor who I just wish the best.

Joseph was one of the best teachers in Math department at University of Delaware. He was able to help me when I struggled during and outside his offices hours. He communicate with the students and treat them fairly. In addition he always organized and try his best to help students to understand

The instructor's schedule over the winter semester requiring him to travel out of state for a number of days during which we had class complicated things a bit. But make no mistake, this guy is still excellent, one of the best math teachers I've ever had. He is lively, communicates perfectly, and is remarkably easygoing and supportive of the students.

well taught class with a great professor

N/A

He was always prepared even when we were online he tried to make it the best learning experience he could and continued to help whenever we needed it.

None

Very accommodating

This professor cares about his students so much

Joseph was able to clarify confusing concepts well.

I had a great experience with my instructor. His personality allowed my to have a positive learning experience. I wish he could teach my other classes so that I am as engaged as I was this winter session.

Amazing professor. Explained everything thoroughly, thoughtfully, and clearly despite the shortened winter session. Truly talented mathematician and professor.

Was very willing to repeat material to make sure everyone had a good understanding of it.
